Pelts for Cheap Rugs.

"Where do you suppose these wolfskins

come from that make such pretty gray rugs,

which only cost about three dollars apiece,

although the fur is so handsome?" said Professor Otis T. Mason the other day. "So many people would not buy them if they knew, I fancy. They are obtained from the animals by the Northern Indians, particularly in the Hudson Bay region, and by the Eskimos. These savages possess a fiendish ingenuity in their methods of capturing game, and their way of applying it for killing wolves is sufficiently horrible to discourage me with this particular sort of peltry.

such animal, which quickly freezes. Now the wolf-catching apparatus is complete, so that the person who sets the trap has only to come back in a day or two and gather in his prey until the merciess film is the centre of a struggling mass of ferocious combatants. It is like the struggle that followed the planting of the dragon's teeth of old, only that none of those who participate live long after the fight is over the last survivor bleeding to death. At his leasure the hunter appears upon the scene, and skins the dead beasts for mar-ket. The pelts cost him nothing, save the trouble of removing them, and the value of the hunk of fat; the stakes with the flint blade is ready to be set again for victims. This is the reason why gray wolf rugs only cost three dollars each, three skins to a rug. "But that is only one of the diabolical derices employed for such purposes by these natives. The hunter takes a long strip of whalebone from the head of a whale he has killed, just such as is used to stiffen corsets. He doubles it up into the shape of the letter M, and fastens it compactly in that form with hinding of fine stream. This he incloses bindings are consumed by the action of the digestive fluids, so that before long the strip

A Japanese Beauty in Distress.

A Japanese girl of sixteen is considered by some the sweetest and most unsophisticated being on earth. Such a girl is one of the nine Japanese girls who came over on the stermer Pemptos, and whom Collector Earhart yester-

Her name is Mine Ta-kota, and she is the prospective bride of Al-fred Eaton, a young engineer of English-Ja-panese parents, who is on his way to Glas-gow, Scotland, to continue his studies. Facts Pure and Simple, Without Embellishment and Without Exaggeration-Industries in Operation.

GOSHEN, VA., May 23 .- [Special.]-We live in an age of material advancement, of inventions, and of discovery; and while from every section of our wonderful country comes tidings of great and important developments, nothing surpasses that of the progress that Virginia has made in her recent rapid strides towards industrial perfection. THE TIMES, recognizing the superiority of the resources of this Commonwealth, has endeavored to place them before the world at large without regard to the statements of others, but through a special correspondent, who in visiting the several localities person-ally records but evidences actually present of the immense growth of a comparatively new-

No city perhaps throughout the wide domain of the Old Dominion has experienced a more rapid, and yet permanent growth, than has GOSHEN, THE QUEEN CITY of the Alleghanies. I have noticed in pro-found astonishment the recent wonderful additions of absolutely material growth, and I state simply what actually exists, without embellishments of any kind.

Just on the brow of a rising hill which begins immediately at the present passenger depot is being erected the splendid

PALACE HOTELA

Already its walls and roof have been com-Already its waits and roof have been completed, and the interior work alone remains to be finished. It is certainly the most exquisite hotel site and the most magnificent building that I have seen in the South. It contains 164 rooms, and will have cost $150,000 when its opening occurs on July 1st. It is of the most modern style of architecture, with towers, and turrets and cables, and con-is of the most modern style of architecture, with towers, and turrets and gables, and contains all the conveniences which characteries the prominent hotels of the country.

From its wine pazzas, over a beautifully terraced slope, will extend a marble staircase to the depot below. This marble is taken from the quarries at Goshen, and is of a very desirable quality. The company have purchased the Cold Sulphur Springs, and through glass pipes will have its waters both on draught and for bathing purposes for guests of the hotel.

Another hotel is being erected which will contain forty rooms, and will be a very hand-some three-story brick building. The foundations are already laid and the work is rapidly progressing.

THE VICTORIA FURNACE.

This furnace has been in operation for ten years, and is without question the largest single blast furnace in the United States. Its ores are brought from the adjacent mountain sides and sides, and its capacity is 200 tons per day. The superior quality of its iron is too well established for comment.
Within $00 yards of the above furnace, and with direct trackage from it, is located the KEYSTONE MACHINE COMPANY.

This company, with its large corps of work-men, is now in full operation. They manu-facture a complete line of wood-working ma-chinery, and when I visited them they were crowded to their utmost capacity with orders already secured.

Their pattern-makers have been selected from the finest skilled mechanics of the North, and the plant is operated by the most practical and thorough men in the business. Already the superiority of their work is being recognized, and their orders are from some of the most extensive firms of the country, in whose establishments machinery of the very best makes only is permitted.

Immediately adjoining the above works are those of the

These works are now in full operation. No company of its kind, certainly in the South and possibly in the North, have a bet-ter or more complete line of patterns than has this firm; they are prepared to cast anything from the smallest easting to a weight of five

In addition to their extensive foundry they In addition to their extensive foundry they have a perfectly equipped machine-shop, containing all of the very latest improvements in iron-working machinery, and from their foundry all castings are here planed, worked or finished for the various purposes for which they were designed. The company have now on hand sufficient orders to keep them busy until late in the summer and are running at the full capacity of the works.

THE GOSHEN EOLLING-MILL.

The enormous buildings required for these mills are already erected, and a portion of the vast machinery was to-day being unloaded, while a quantity of it is already in place. The while a quantity of it is already in place. The magnitude of the concern is hardly realized even by the citizens of Goshen.

The main building is 40s feet in length, with a span of 120 feet, and is 200 feet wide. It is known as a "merchant mill," and contains one engine of 400-horse power, another of 300-horse power and four smaller engines. The machinery is of recent conception and has been selected with a view to its adaptability in making bar, band, guide, skelp and hoop fron, the last named being suitable for cotton ties, bucket and barrel hoops. It contains sixteen puddling furnaces and a heating furnace of thirty tons capacity.

This mill will be in full operation by July 1st. The superintendent is Mr. W. W. Nevegold, of Pennsylvania, and the general arrangements of the building and the placing of the machinery has been under his personal supervision and control. His reputation is that of an experienced mechanic and one of the most thoroughly practical and successful men in this particular branch of business.

This single plant will require a force of 400 men, which will add, at a reasonable calculation, at least 1,500 inhabitants to Goshen before the summer is ended.

fore the summer is ended.

GOSHEN CAR AND BAILWAY EQUIPMENT COMPANY. By far the most extensive plant which has yet sought the unlimited advantages of this district is the above-named car works.

The foundry, machine shops and wood-mills are now under roof, the forge shop is nearly completed, and a multitude of work-men are busy on the erection of the other various buildings necessary for its perfect oper-

Two erecting shops, capable of containing fifty-four cars each, have already the framework up, and the ground for the pattern shops, brass foundry and steel plant has been laid off. Two iron transfer-tables, each 72 feet long, will be utilized in the handling of the cars when finished and in supplying the material to the different shops.

The foundry has two cupolas each of twelve tons per hour capacity, and the iron is carried by electric trams, overhead system, to each floor.

The machine shop is fully supplied with all the necessary tools for works of this character, including hydraulic cranes, and was equipped at a cost of $75,000.

The forge shop is prepared to do all of the work required of it, even to the manufacture of axies. This, however, will be the only works of the kind in this country, except the Pullman Company, which makes, its own axies. This portion of the plant will cost $40,000.

The wood mill is complete in all of its details, and was perfected at a cost of $35,000.

The entire works will require fourteen acres, under cover, when completed, and eight acres have been reserved for a lumber-yard. The lumber—oak, ash, poplar and pine—will all be cut from the timbered lands of Virginia.

An extensive brick plant is now working at full capacity, and is manufacturing about 21,000 brick per day.

The source of water supply for the town is Mill creek, a pure mountain stream of most excellent water. The reservoir will be on one of the adjacent hill-tops, and will furnish ample supplies.

The preliminary survey of the Davis rail-road, the West Virginia Central, is now being made through Goshen, and will in all human probabilities be permanently located through this industrial centre. RELIABLE AGENTS.

The capitalists and investors who have been busily seeking opportunities for advantageous investments in Goshen have had the benefit of being in communication with a superior class of real estate agents. I have found them to be affable, courteous and clever, and thoroughly conscientious and honorable in all of their dealings. They are fully alive to the advantages of Goshen, and are potent factors in her material development. I record the names of the most prominent agents: A. G. Harman & Co., Sale & Laird, J. W. Bell, R. J. Anderson & Co., Washington Uhler & Co., with A. D. Smith, Jr., resident partner, Lecky, Dunlap & Co., Sterrett & Co., J. Armistead Browning, Jr. & Bros., A. Alexander and Mitchell & Potter. Success, yes unqualified success, is the term which best expresses the conduct of the affairs of the Charlotte Consolidated Construction from its inception to its maturity. The conservative, honest, conscientious maner in which the whole affair has been managed not only established the high reputation of the six men who controlled it, but it brought its full reward in the handsome showing of results. What other method would have made a sale last through three days when there was an effort rather to subdue than augment hidding? Or what other plan would have established such what other plan would have established such confidence as caused the second day to be-come more spirited than the first, and made the last day the best sales day of the whole? THE LAST DAT'S SALE.

Although the sun poured down mercilessly all during the morning hours of yesterday a throng of bidders followed the auctioneer from square to square and the bidding went on without lagging until, satisfied with the result, the manager called a halt. I heard the auctioneer say after the sale that he could not understand the policy of these men who stopped a sale when he could have sold $150,000 worth of lots in one day as easy as he could $50,000 but these who could have sold $150,000 worth of lots in one day as easy as he could $50,000, but those who know them best do understand it. They were carrying out a regular plan of operations formulated in good judgment long ago. They do not try to get excessive prices for their property, but rather sold that portion set apart for this sale at such prices as would allow greater values to the prices as would allow greater values to the purchaser at once. The company still own the bulk of and some of the choicest lands, and these they have already advanced 25 per cent. on the prices paid for adjoining lots.

"It is beautifully simple. They take a flat piece of flint a foot or so long and chipped to extreme sharpness at the edges. This they fasten to a wooden stake, which they drive into the ground firmly, so as to leave the blade of flint projecting above the surface. Then they cover the blade all over with a good-sized hunk of fat from a seal or other such animal, which quickly freezes. Now the A WELL PLEASED SET OF MEN. A better pleased set of men do not exist A better pleased set of men do not exist than the six who compose the Four C.'s. They have cast their bread upon the waters and after many days, by the flood of newspaper advertising and the sunshine of good judgment, it has returned to them, and there is yet a grand crop for the harvester to reap. It won't be long before every purchaser of a lot in Dilworth will rejoice over his possession. The completion of the plans yet in their incipiency will make such a change for the better that their holdings will be enhanced in value to a large extentat once, and the improvements in contemplation, as back in a day or two and gather in his prey without trouble.

"The wolf has a mastering appetite for blood, and it is of this weakness that the hunter takes advantage. A little while after the trap described has been set along comes the wolf. He is bungry and he licks the hunk of frozen fat. Ah, it is good! So he licks it some more, and as it thawed by the warmth of his tongue it tastes better and better. Presently his tongue comes in contact with the sharp edge of the flint and is cut. He tastes the blood, not knowing that it is his own, and the flavor sets him wild. Eagerly he licks it and licks it, lacerating his mouth and becoming more and more frenzied in his deand the improvements in contemplation, as well as those that will naturally follow, will give such an impetus to growth that men will want to kick themselves for not buying more. licks it and licks it, lacerating his mouth and becoming more and more frenzied in his desire for his own life fluid.

"Meanwhile other wolves have come up, and have begun to lick at the fat cutting their own tongues, and becoming in their turn wild at the taste. So, presently, the batt is surrounded by a pack of ravenous and crazy creatures, which soon turn upon one another, and fall to devouring each other, until the merciless flint is the centre of a support of the completants. OVERCOMING OPPOSITION. In the start the Four C's were not only lacking in the co-operation of the citizens, but they encountered direct opposition from some of the best people in Charlotte. As their wise plans and honesty of purpose were unfolded, however, prejudice gave way to admiration until the number of dissenters grew into such a minority that there was a hush to all adverse criticism, and if there is a man now in Charlotte who does not accord to these gentlemen the position of public benefactors, he keeps his opinions to himself. The wide-spread results are yet to come and the influences of the press are yet to be felt in its fullest sense. The letters received from all sorts and conditions of industrial men seeking profitable investment and favorable location is the beginning only of unpossible descript for Charlotte. to all adverse criticism, and if there paralleled growth for Charlotte.

THE FOUR C.'S PRESS CLUB.

The Four C's Press Club, which has been so instrumental in advertising Charlotte to the outside world, will perpetuate itself under the name of "The Southern Industrial Press Club," and its members hope to take active part in the great industrial move that is enveloping this whole fair Southland.

veloping this whole fair Southland.

After a handsome complimentary dinner yesterday given in their honor by Messrs, Echols & Bryan, proprietors of the Central Hotel, the club held its last meeting in Charlotte, and some of its members returned to their homes, while others prolong their stay a few days longer to fulfill contracts. Every man leaves Charlotte with deep regret and in grateful remembrance of the kindnesses, courtesies and hospitalities extended to them by the people.

The last act of the club was to draw up suitable resolution of thanks for all these things which have gone to make our stay here so delightful and so pleasant, and have them published in the local press.

Acquaintances have been made and friend-

PLEASURE TRIP TO WASHINGTON.

"Nothing better illustrates the superiority of a mau as an animal over his competitors in the struggle for existence than the ease with which he is able to destroy by device the biggest and most formidable of the creatures he encounters. There are no savages so low in the human scale as not to find ready means for capturing and killing the largest and most dangerous beasts. The time is not recorded in the annals of the world when the natives of the lands inhabited by the elephant and the On Monday next all the members whose business engagements permit will reassemble in Charlotte to take a pleasure trip to Wash ington. This is a compliment extended the club through the courtesy of Colonel James L. Unhesitatingly does the Polynesian attack the man-eating shark in its own element, diving beneath it and stabbing it in the belly with a knife. There is nothing which man is afraid of or will not try to catch. In the primitive traditions of most races you will find accounts of the tricks employed by their ancestors for snaring the sun, the moon and out a holiday.

The march of industrial progress South is just beginning to reach the old North State in earnest, and the outcome of Charlotte's enterprise is but the opening wedge. I talked with men here during the sale from numerous other towns, and they all report growing activity and speak enthusiastically of the future growth of their respective towns.

MARIE GREENWOOD,

Marie Greenwood, whose opera company has held the boards here through the week, has sung herself into the hearts of the people with her spirited rendition of Dixie. Encore followed encore and last night when, after repeated calls, she changed her song to "Little Annie Rooney" the audience held high carnival and in a body joined in the chorus. The rare good humor and innocent hilarity that prevailed would have to be seen to be appreciated. It was one of those scenes in which wild excitement was controlled by perfect propriety.

THE WINSTON-COLUMBIA BALL GAME.

The closing game of the series between Winston and Columbia for the championship Winston and Columbia for the championship of the Carolinas was played yesterday and was the closest and most interesting of the three, but like the other two Winston came out winner. Columbia shut Winston out until the ninth inning, when, by a series of brilliant plays. Winston piled up a score of four runs to three that Columbia had held from the beginning of the game. A good deal of interest and State pride was shown in these games and it is now the programme for Charleston to try and win back the South State's laurels from Winston.

Already $185,000 have been spent, and the plant will have cost $300,000 when completed. The present capital stock of the company is $500,000, all of which has been fully paid up. Orders have now been received for 1,200 freight cars, 500 box cars, 200 refrigerators cars and 800 electric street cars, all of which the company is under contract to finish within tweive months. A portion of the works will be in operation in thirty days, and by September 1st cars will be turned out daily. The initial work of the company will require additions to the force will be made.

The entire machinery is to be run by electric motors, although each shop will be fitted up with a Cerliss engine to be used in case of accident. These motors will be susphied by generators run by an engine of 1,000 horse.
